

THE MOVE IS COMPLETE!

Our Health, Housing & Building, Economic Development and Engineering Departments have relocated to 2300 West Main Street

The City of Belleville would like to remind everyone that three of our City Departments have moved to the new Belleville Educational Center at 2300 West Main Street, the former Lindenwood University Campus. Please visit our Health, Housing & Building Department, Economic Development, Planning and Zoning Department and our Engineering Department in the M Building on campus.

According to our Directors of these departments, the move has been both challenging and rewarding for the departments and the residents too! Scott Tyler our Health, Housing and Building Director shared that "The move from Lincoln Street to The Belleville Educational Campus has been a wonderful experience, a newly updated facility on a beautiful campus and a break room with A SINK! You never realize how important a sink is, until you don't have one. Everyone is extremely pleased with our new offices, but there were some growing pains. We didn't get any mail that should have been forwarded here, for 2 weeks! Some was returned to sender, some arrived, some simply vanished. Other than a couple of small computer issues that were worked out, I cannot say enough about how pleased everyone is with the new facility."

Cliff Cross, our Economic Development Director shared that "The City of Belleville's Economic Development, Planning and Zoning Department is extremely excited about our new office location. It provides the staff a professional environment to work with current and prospective business partners within Belleville and throughout the region. We further believe the new office location, and the professional environment it provides, reflects a progressive and professional approach that will assist the city in our economic development efforts, as we move forward towards the long-term growth and success for the city and our business partners.

We would like to thank Mayor Gregory, Dean Hardt, Scott Markovich, Ty Buckner and the entire City staff that contributed to a seamless move and made this opportunity a reality for myself and the entire Economic Development, Planning & Zoning staff."

And our Engineering Director Sal Elkott was also very pleased with this move; "The move was an exemplary case of teamwork by dedicated public servants. Even those who were under extreme demand for their skills were cordial, helpful. The new offices are professional and a good reflection on our city government. The move is also a statement by the city that we are investing in our West end"

The City of Belleville would also like to share the following map, to assist with the preferred parking areas, and how to reach the main entrance of the M Building, which now houses all these departments on the Belleville Educational Campus...
